THE NORTH CAROLINA DIVISION of the INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION for IDENTIFICATION:

The North Carolina Division of the International Association for Identification held its first meeting in High Point, NC on February 6, 1938, and received its charter from the parent organization of the IAI on March 14, 1938. The North Carolina Division is the third oldest state division. The parent organization has members in all 50 states and in many other countries and possessions.

PURPOSE: The N.C.I.A.I. is an academic association whose purpose is to associate persons engaged in the many fields of forensic science and criminal investigation. To assist in the education and standardization of scientific analysis and crime detection and to provide for those engaged in the field to meet, discuss, and stay abreast of changing methodology and technology.

BENEFITS OF MEMBERSHIP:

MEETINGS – The association produces a two to three day training conference once each year. The semi-annual education conferences provide an outstanding opportunity to personally establish effective professional (and personal) working relationships with others engaged in the field.

PUBLICATION - The association's newsletter is our website www.nciai.com. The website contains articles about recent developments in techniques and instrumentation – as well as general articles concerning various aspects of forensic science. Members are informed of meetings, seminars, jobs and information concerning the activities of members.

STUDENT MEMBERSHIPS - Student members have the opportunity to network and learn from forensic professionals who are actively working in the field. Student members have the ability to apply for the NCI AI Scholarship and are kept abreast of the latest job openings in the state.
